TELECINE 1 (contd)

Mist rising. Bird Song.
First we see nothing but the view. Then into CU comes a billowing silvery shape swelling and hissing towards us. Pull back to show it is not some weird monster but the long slim shape of a meteorological balloon. It lands, partly deflated, and anchored to the ground by a heavy looking dayglo orange box
the size of a car battery.
The box bears a message in English
French and Dutch to call Doctor
Tyler, Wessex University.

ON FILM

WIDEN to show ARTHUR OLLIS, in anorak, rubber boots and binoculars, watching the balloonard box. Cautiously he walks towards it ...

CU the box. It crackles ... just a little.

MIX

Ext. Bird Sanctuary. Day.

TYLER in a Wessex University Land Rover passes through the entrance of the bird sanctuary and the notice "SANCTUARY: PERMIT HOLDERS ONLY".

He drives up to the Warden's Lodge - also labelled - gets out. MRS. OLLIS, the Warden's wife, a pleasant tanned outdoor woman in her forties, Norfolk accent, comes to meet him. She is slightly anxious.

MRS. OLLIS: Doctor Tyler is it?

TYLER: Yes. Sorry to be a trouble, thanks very much for calling -

MRS. OLLIS: Arthur's keeping an eye on it, down by the beach. He hasn't touched it. Not chemicals I hope? Only the birds you see -

TYLER: (STARTING ENGINE) No you're alright. Nothing to worry about -

Off he drives ...

Ext. Marshes. Day.

CU box in dunes.

WIDEN to show ARTHUR OLLIS squatting on a dune watching it from a healthy distance. He reacts to Land Rover engine, stands up, turns his back on box to look and wave to the unseen Tyler.

We hear the Land Rover stop.

ARTHUR OLLIS comes back to the box. As he bends to pick it up, the crackling increases as if in warning. ARTHUR stops, then lays a hand on it ... There is a flash of electromagnetic radiation and ARTHUR's IMAGE is eaten into holes like a gruyere cheese. He disappears.

CUT TO TYLER coming over the ridge. Puzzled to see no Arthur ...

Then he notices that the sand around the box has fused to crystal and scorch marks surround the box. He thinks for a moment ... then approaches the box cautiously ... Tension mounts ... the box stays silent ...

TYLER: (cont) Mister Ollis!

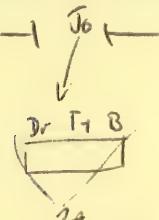

No reply. TYLER shrugs, and picks up a rock to anchor the balloon, detaches the box and carries it up to the top of the dunes. Nothing happens to him. He takes one last look around for Arthur. Then puts the box on the floor of the Land Rover and picks up the radio telephone ...

2-s TYLER/BRIGADIER

TYLER: That's right. We may not be NASA, but we get the results.
Inside is the most sophisticated cosmic ray monitoring device between here and Cape Kennedy. And I ought to know - I knocked it up myself. /

ON FILM

As they talk THE DOCTOR climbs down the dune to examine the sand. He tests for radiation: The same crackle noise on his pocket geigercounter. He places a sample in the other end of this multipurpose instrument and scrutinises the sample through the microscope aperture... He becomes more and more concerned, and returns to the TWO WOMEN.

DOCTOR: And you haven't seen your husband since this morning?

MRS. OLLIS: (SMILING, UNWORRIED) Nothin' unusual in that. He'll be off somewhere. We shan't see him now till dark... I'll look for him if you like -

DOCTOR: (LYING - AND JO KNOWS IT) No no it's not important.

MRS. OLLIS: Please yourself. I'll be getting on then -

MRS OLLIS goes OUT OF SHOT over dune... JO turns to THE DOCTOR.

JO: It is important isn't it Doctor -?

JO: What is it Doctor?

DOCTOR WHO: When I tell you to run, you run.

DOCTOR: Right - run!

The gel is barely three feet away, crackling and hissing...
THE DOCTOR slams the door down as JO dives through.

Int. Outside Garage Door.

An impressive electromagnetic flash from inside the garage...

THE DOCTOR gets up, drags JO away...she glances through a window into the garage!

JO: What happened - what is it?

He stops to look: Bessie has disappeared, together with the garage doors.

DR. WHO: I don't know.

JO: Poor old Bessie.
